c) The Director for the Economic Studies Department informed that on June 1, 2006, the excess of the daily legal reserve of the banking system was located at Q555.7 million, with an average position of Q555.7 million.

The highlights during the period of May 25 to June 1, 2006 the main monetizing factors were the decrease in the balance of the long term deposits constituted in the Banco de Guatemala for Q805.2 million and the increase in the Net International Reserve –RIN- balance for the equivalent of Q38.4 million; while the main demonetizing factors were the increase in the banking float balance for Q469.6 million, the deposits of the Central Government in the Banco de Guatemala for Q102.2 million.

Regarding the indicative variables of the Monetary, Exchange Rate and Credit Policy they indicated that with the projection to April 2006, for December 2006 the total expected inflation estimated with a model of ordinary squared minimums is of 7.55% and with a softened exponential model of 7.32%; the simple average of both models is located at 7.44%, which is found within the margin of tolerance (6.0% +/- 1 percentage point), which suggests the monetary policy remain invariable; and, for December 2007 the total expected inflation, estimated with an ordinary squared minimum model, is of 7.75% and with a softened exponential model of 6.22%; the simple average of both models is at 6.99%, which is over the expected policy goal (5.0% +/- 1 percentage point), which suggests a restrictive monetary policy.

Regarding the expected subjacent inflation for 2006, with data up to April 2006, estimated with an integrated auto-regression model of mobile averages ARIMA was of 6.89%, whereas the estimated with a softened exponential model was of 6.46%; the simple average of both models is of 6.68%, which is within the margin of tolerance for the policy goal (6.0% +/- 1 percentage point), which suggests the monetary policy remain invariable; and, for December 2007 the estimated subjacent inflation with an integrated autoregressive model of mobile averages ARIMA, was of 7.01%, whereas the estimated softened exponential model was of 5.99%.; the simple average of both models is of 6.50%, which is located over the policy goal (5.0% +/- 1 percentage point), which suggests a restrictive monetary policy.

As to the parameter rate, up to May 25, 2006, the lower limit was 1.92%, and the upper limit is 9.82%; while the simple average between the repurchase agreements of 8 to 15 days (4.68%) and the weighted average of the monetary stabilization operations of up to 91 days (4.67%) was situated at 4.68%, which is located within the tolerance margin estimated for the parameter rate, situation that suggests the monetary policy remain invariable. When referring to the parity liable rate, they declared that up to May 25, 2006, the lower limit was 6.41% and the upper limit was 7.99%, and the weighted average rate of long term deposits of the banking system was of 7.03%, which maintains itself within the fluctuation range of the parity liable rate, which advises an invariable monetary policy.

As to monetary issue observed to June 1, 2006, they indicated that it presents a deviation of Q525.4 million regarding the upper limit programmed runner for said variable, which would indicate that there is space available to restrict the monetary policy.

As to the total payment means, to May 25, 2006, it exhibited an inter-annual growth rate of 16.7%, which is under the tolerance margin estimated range for said variable on that same date (16.6% to 18.6%), which advises an invariable monetary policy. Also, up to said date, the banking credit of the private sector registered an inter-annual growth rate of 26.9%, which is over the range estimated for May 25, 2006 (24.3% to 26.3%), which suggests a restrictive monetary policy.

As to inflation expectations of private analysts, they indicated that according to the poll made in May 2006, for December 2006 an inflationary rhythm of 7.80% is expected, which is above the goal for monetary policy (6.0% +/- 1 percentage point), an aspect which suggests restricting monetary policy; and, for December 2007, the inflation projection is located at 6.87%, which is over the monetary policy goal (5.0% +/- 1 percentage point), which suggests restricting the monetary policy.

Also it was indicated that the variable implied inflation expectations, for May 2006 showed an inflationary rhythm of 6.34%, which is within a tolerance margin of the monetary policy for 2006 (6.0% +/- 1 percentage point), which suggests an invariable monetary policy.

They mentioned that the Monetary Conditions Index –ICM-, to May 25, 2006, was -2.76 percentage points which is within the fluctuation margin estimated for said variable on that date (-3.71 to -2.11 percentage points), which advises that the monetary policy should remain invariable.

To conclude this report, regarding the orientation of the indicative variables; it was reported that regarding the previous week, the “payment means” went from suggesting that the monetary policy remain relaxed to suggesting that the monetary policy be invariable; with a increase from five to six, the number of variables that suggest that the monetary policy remain invariable (the subjacent inflation projection for 2006, the parameter rate, the parity liable rate, total payment means, the implied inflation expectations and the Monetary Conditions Index); seven variables continue advising the monetary policy remain restrictive (the total inflation projection for 2006 and for 2007, the subjacent inflation projection for 2007, the monetary issue, the banking credit to the private sector and the inflation expectations of the private analysts for 2006 and for 2007); and no variables suggest relaxing the monetary policy.

Finally, it was indicated that regarding the behavior of the nominal exchange rate, the center of the expected runner for the week of May 29 to June 2, 2006 was of Q7.645 per US$1.00 and the observed level (calculated as the average of the exchange rates for purchase and sale in the Institutional Market of Foreign Currency for the period between May 29 to 31) was of Q7.596 per US$1.00, which allows inferring that the observed value of the nominal exchange rate is found within the expected fluctuation band, but close to the lower limit, therefore in this light inflationary or deflationary pressures are not foreseen.

d) The Committee took note that the monetizing and demonetizing factors foreseen for the week of June 2 to 8, 2006 indicate an increase in the creation of primary liquidity for Q1, 729.7 million, fundamentally due to the maturity of LTD's. Also, a decrease in the demand for monetary issue for Q58.8 million is foreseen and a daily banking liquidity position for Q12.0 million. Also, monetary issue is deviated in Q707.9 million above the central programmed point for said variable, therefore the excess of aggregate liquidity estimated for the referred period is located at Q2,484.4 million; if these factors are given, the Committee considered that it would be necessary to make the issue offer compatible with the demand programmed, that the LTD's that expire during the period (Q2,253.8 million, according to registries to June 1, 2006) have to be relocated; and, also, have additional fund raising for around Q230.5 million.

THIRD: Determination of the bidding quotas for the term deposits.

Regarding the determination of quotas for the biddings in the following week, the information provided by the daily monetization flow was taken into account, estimated for the following week and on the other hand, the adopted measures of the previous week regarding the reduction of quotas and the number of weekly biddings; as well as alternating the bidding terms. Based on the above, the Committee agreed that the fund-raising quota for the 91 and 364 day terms to be convened on Monday, June 5, 2006 to be established at Q20.0 million and Q40.0 million, respectively.

Regarding the convening to bidding of LTD's in US dollars, the Committee took into account the foreseen maturity of Treasury Bonds expressed in US dollars, and considered that for the week of June 5 to 9, 2006, it is necessary to convene biddings of LTD's in the mentioned currency.

As to fund raising for the public, the interest rate for each term, can not be higher than the weighted average of the corresponding bid minus one percentage point.

The Committee agreed to convene bidding for term deposits in United States dollars, on Wednesday, June 7, 2006, in 91 and 264 day terms, for an amount of up to US$30.0 million. The bids received will be awarded the reference interest rates of the Treasury Letters of the United States of America in similar terms, without excluding the possibility of receiving higher rates if they merit it, convening a session of the Committee to decide the awarding.

The Committee agreed to continue accepting the constitution of term deposits in United States dollars directly at the window, from public entities, in current terms of (91 days and 364 days) and that the interest rate applied will use the interest rates of the Treasury Letters of the United States of America in similar terms as a reference.
