Regarding the indicative variables of the Monetary, Exchange and Credit Policy they indicated that with the projection to November for December of 2005 the total expected inflation estimated with a model of ordinary squared minimums is of 9.15% and with a softened exponential model of 9.22%; the simple average of both models is located at 9.19%, which is above the policy range goal (4.0%-6.0%), which suggests a restrictive monetary policy.

Regarding the expected subjacent inflation for 2005, with data up to November 2005, estimated with an integrated auto-regression model of mobile averages ARIMA, was of 7.87%, whereas the estimated with a softened exponential model it was of 8.01%; the simple average of both models is of 7.94%, which is above the policy range goal (4.0%-6.0%), which suggests a restrictive monetary policy.

As to the parameter rate, up to December 22, 2005, the lower limit was 3.73%, and the upper limit is 11.63%, while the simple average resulting between the repurchase agreements of 8 to 15 days (4.40%) and the weighted average rate of open market operations –OMA- of up to 91 days (4.52%) was situated at 4.46%, which is located within the estimated for the parameter rate, situation that suggests that the monetary policy remain invariable. As to the total payment means, to December 22, 2005, it exhibited an inter-annual growth rate of 14.9%, which is within the estimated range for said variable on that same date (9.9% to 11.9%), which advises to restrict the monetary policy. Also, up to said date, the banking credit to the private sector registered an inter-annual growth rate of 21.1%, which is above the upper limit of the estimated range for December 22, 2005 (11.1% to 13.1%), which suggests a restrictive monetary policy.

To conclude this report, regarding the orientation of the indicative variables; it was reported that it remained the same regarding last week: six variables suggest that the monetary policy be restricted (the total inflation projection, the subjacent inflation projection, the inflation expectations of private analysts, monetary issue and banking credit to the private sector and the total payment means); three variables suggest the monetary policy remain invariable (parity passive rate, the parameter rate, and the Monetary Conditions Indexes); and none suggest to be lax with it.

FOURTH: Analysis of the monetary situation and definition of the guidelines of Monetary, Exchange and Credit Policy execution for the following week.

a) Analysis of the monetary situation

The Committee took note that the monetizing and demonetizing factors foreseen for the week of December 30, 2005 to January 6, 2006 indicate an increase in the creation of primary liquidity for Q2, 264.3 million, fundamentally due to the maturity of LTD's. Also, a decrease is foreseen for the demand for monetary issue for Q914.2 million and a daily negative position of banking liquidity for January 5, 2006 for Q131.9 million. Also, monetary issue is deviated in Q311.8 million above the central programmed point for said variable, therefore the excess of added liquidity for the referred period is located at Q3, 358.5 million; if these factors are given, the Committee considered that it would be necessary to make the issue offer compatible with the demand programmed, that the LTD's that expire during the period (Q2,624.3 million, according to registries to December 28, 2005) have to be relocated; and also, make additional raising funds for around Q734.2 million.

Regarding the determination of quotas for biddings in the following week, the information provided for estimated daily flow of monetization for the following week and the established rule for that effect. Also, the Committee according to the agreed by the representatives of the Ministerio de Finanzas Públicas (Equivalent to the Department of the Treasury), in the coordination meeting made on December 29, 2005, said office will begin to offer Treasury Bonds on the Money Market, as of January 5, 2006, in the 6, 8 and 10 year terms. In that sense, consistent with the established by the Committee in its session 32-2005 celebrated June 24, 2005 as to when the referred ministry participate in the Money Market, the Banco de Guatemala would cease its participation in the long term deposits, it agreed that as of January 3, 2006 it will no longer operate 4, 6, and 8 year terms.

Based on the above, the Committee agreed that for the week of January 3 to 6, 2006, the fund raising quota for the 91 and 364 day terms to be convened on Tuesday of that week was established at Q50.0 million for each term and for the 182 and 728 day terms to be convened on Friday, were also established at Q50.0 million each.

On the other hand, the Committee took note that there were no important maturities for Treasury Bonds expressed in US dollars with residents, which suggests that in that venue there are no exchange market pressures; therefore it agreed that for the week of January 3 to 6, 2006, there would be no convening to LTD bids in the cited currency.

b) Definition of the execution guidelines for the Monetary, Exchange and Credit Policy for the following week.

Based on the monetary situation analysis, the Execution Committee agreed that for the week of January 3 to 6, 2006, they would maintain the execution guidelines for the monetary policy observed during the present week; in other words, continue to operate in MEBD and in the Stock exchange, in raising funds as well as in giving liquidity to the market. The raising funds operations will be 7 day terms without quota, at an interest rate of 4.25%, whereas, the offer position of liquidity at 7 day terms, with an initial interest rate of 7.65%, whose guarantee of said operations will be constituted by receiving public titles, only. It is worth mentioning that the Committee stressed the importance of participating in both venues; in other words, maintaining simultaneous positions of giving liquidity to the market and liquidity withdrawal, considering said participation constitutes a sign of disposition of the Central Bank to moderate the volatility of the short term interest rate.

The Committee, taking into consideration the agreed with the fiscal policy to participate in the money market, agreed that the calling for biddings for term deposits would continue on Tuesday and Friday for the following week; so Tuesday for 91 and 364 day terms, with an raising funds quota of Q50.0 million for each term; and Friday for 182 and 728 day terms, with raising funds quotas for Q50.0 million each. The interest rates would be determined according to the market conditions, reflected in the bids received, considering the established yield curve by the technical department. The payment of interest for the 728 day term will be every semester, so as to keep with the same conditions held by the Ministerio de Finanzas Públicas (Equivalent to the Department of the Treasury).

On the other hand, the Committee agreed to continue acquiring directly at the window, with official and public entities. In the case of official entities, that the raising funds continue according to the prevalent financial conditions; in other words, the interest rate for 7 day terms would be the one that applies for the Banco de Guatemala in the MEBD and in the stock exchange and, for the other terms, the interest rate would be the mobile average, for each term, of the weighted average interest rate resulting in the previous four bidding events. As to fund raising for the public, the interest rate for each term, can not be higher than the weighted average of the corresponding bid minus one percentage point.

As for the participation of the Banco de Guatemala in the Exchange market, the Committee agreed that it should continue participating in the SINEDI through participation rules established in session 55-2005 dated October 27, 2005.
